Arc Lights Wanted On Beach Residence Streets

ONE MORE LIGHT

SECURED BY RESIDENTS OF BEACH DISTRICT

The recent installation of an arc light at the intersection of Castellar and Etiwanda streets, through the efforts of residents of that section, has already proved a great blessing for the neighborhood, while furnishing striking evidence of the need of additional lights in other dark intersections throughout the beach district. There are a dozen or more places in the populated center where lights are urgently wanted and have been promised year after year. There's Cape May avenue for instance. Not a light for the four long blocks from Abbott to Ebers street, while a "dead" lamp still hangs at Bacon street and Newport avenue. The residents near Cable street and Narragansett avenue are also anxiously awaiting the much promised installation of an arc light at that very dark corner. With the paving program practically assured for Ocean Beach, the greatest need now is the installation of arc lights with due regularity at all intersections of streets and avenues.

SCHLATTER

Written for "The Beach News" By D. C. CROSBY, Ocean Beach.

In the early days of mining in Colorado, there were two men named Snow and Schlatter who worked together and were very successful, and became wealthy; and when they were fully satisfied with their savings they quit mining, dissolved their partnership and went separate ways.

Mr. Snow liked Colorado well enough to remain there, so he bought some land at North Denver and built a small cottage for present needs, saving a fine site on a hill a little back from the highway for future use; where he later built a fine home in which he and his family lived at the time my story opens. He had embellished it with lawns, trees and shrubbery until it was a show place known for miles around.

One day in September in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-six, Mr. Snow was doing some-

America's Hero

Another American boy has written his name in the immortal Hall of Fame by his bravery and daring in conquering the elements and making the first non-stop transatlantic flight from New York to Paris. The name of Capt. Chas. A. Lindbergh will always prevail in the history of brave men. His modesty and sportsmanship in the midst of triumphs, honor and the praise of men and nations has made his accomplishment even more glorious. All France welcomed him with open arms and he is returning home as an honored guest aboard the American warship Memphis to be given a great presidential greeting at the nation's capital. The famous flyer, who was formerly in the air-mail service, is due in Washington this week-end when the postal department has arranged for the American public to tender their felicitations with thousands of air mail messages especially forwarded from all sections of the United States.

WHAT PERCENTAGE

IS YOUR TAX INCREASE?

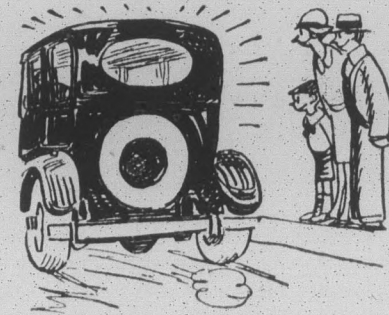

In his interesting philosophic and sketchy "kollem" in "The San Diego Union" Col. Roundabout very pointedly says:

"For the past few years we have been yelling about the size of our county taxes. But now that you have got your city tax bill you have a chance to really exercise your lungs. It begins to look like a race between the county and the city to see which can tax us the most."

STRAND APPLIANCE

STORE ENLARGES STOCK

Chas. A. Hill, proprietor of the Strand Appliance company, in the Kraft building, announces an addition to his stock which includes sundries essential to odd jobs of house-wiring. This store now has door bell sets, house wire, extension cord, lamp cord in art colors, wall switches, kitchen ceiling lights, reflectors, etc. Mr. Hill states that because it eliminates the hazards of a wringer, his Savage Wringerless Washers are becoming more popular every day.

In Memoriam

A TRIBUTE OF LOVE TO MRS. TEMPERANCE ANN HAINES

Ninety-six years of life! Ninety-six beautiful years, so full and brimming over with kindly service wherever possible, that we, who knew her, will always consider ourselves blessed that the privilege was ours to call her friend; and because she has gone from our sight, our hearts are bowed with grief today. To know her was to love her—one couldn't help it.

The memory of her will always evoke a most beautiful picture, for it would be impossible to conceive a more beautiful soul clothed in human flesh. God must have fashioned her to be a living idea of what He intended his children to become while yet in the body.

Mrs. Haines was married twice; her second husband was a Quaker, since which nuptials she has been a member of the Friends' church. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. B. Poole, living in the east, and Mrs. Alfred Lamkin, residing at Point Loma; also one grand-daughter, Mrs. Maude Elliot, and two great-grandsons, Benjamin and Alfred Elliot.

With ill-will toward none and charity toward all, her dear lips were ever ready to frame a prayerful excuse for humanity's frailties. Her Bible was near at hand always, and no day passed that she did not imbibe strengthening manna therefrom; and when asked how she felt, would always reply, that "Jesus was her friend and kept her well!"

It must have been so, for so wonderful was the vitality housed in her frail tenement, that, up to the day before she was summoned hence, she proudly assisted with the home work as usual, also freed the bushes in their garden from the faded blossoms. She loved flowers and never was happier than when working around them in enjoyment of the sunshine.

But the sands of her lovely life were running low; for, as the page was being turned, on which her name was inscribed, she rose from her bed in the early dawn, and saying she felt very tired, she sat in her old arm-chair, in which her Quaker-husband had breathed his last—where she heard the final call, which she answered with one upward glance and the habitual lovely smile, that we all were so familiar with, on her wasted, wrinkled face. Thus she returned the Gift entrusted to her and cancelled her indebtedness to the Giver of Life, as the God of Day rose in the east.

Rest thee in Christ, thy Bosom Friend, dear one, for indeed He will say, thou hast rendered a good accounting of thy stewardship!

STRAND THEATRE

Saturday, Jetta Goudal in "White Gold," a heart drama that sweeps with irresistible power from the picturesque dance halls of Mexico to the barren plains of the western sheep country, involving a beautiful dancing girl, a young sheep rancher, and the other man. "White Gold" is ranked as one of the best ten pictures made this year. The scenic will be "Belgium Today." The News Weekly and a comedy complete the bill.

Sunday and Monday, Richard Dix in "Knockout Reilly," a comedy melodrama of a steel worker who becomes a prize fighter almost against his will, is framed by his opponent on the eve of the fight and railroaded to prison. While there he trains on the rock pile, and has his revenge upon release when he plays the hunch of his sweetheart and knocks out his old enemy. Fables and "Your Past Husbands" comedy.

Tuesday and Wednesday Anna Q. Nilsson, Charlie Murray, Holbrook Blinn, Ruth Roland and Einar Hanson in "The Masked Woman," a drama for those who have lost romance and want to find it again, and those who hold romance close to their hearts. Diana they called her, goddess of the hunt, the man hunt, wearing a mask over her eyes, her heart on her sleeve. But ask the gay Baron Tolentino if that heart could be plucked. "Saere Bleu! No!" The News Weekly and a comedy.

Here's A Place To Say What You Think

ASSESSMENTS

Mr. Kirk Smith,
Editor, "The Beach News,"

Sir: The latest assessment has done an immense amount of damage to our city by way of depressing values of real estate. Many who were planning to build have changed their minds, and others are offering to sell cheap, saying they will not own any thing here. But who will buy such prospects? Note the latest building permits. If the city taxes have jumped from one million to three million, what will it be when the county is heard from? When we add the extravagant waste of the public funds, the constant increase of salaries, and the cost of living, etc., the outlook is discouraging. Some people get intoxicated if they get a chance to spend money, especially public funds. How will it do

BIG SAVING BY

POLICY OF BEST SERVICE
AT LEAST COST

As the result of an informal conference between the railroad commission of California and the San Diego Consolidated Gas & Electric company, held at San Francisco Friday, June 3, upwards of 50,000 electric lighting customers served by that company in San Diego and Orange counties will save over $200,000 per annum in electric light bills through substantial rate reductions. Wm. F. Raber, vice-president and general manager of the company announced this week. The rate reduction will become effective as of July 1.

In the opinion of the railroad commission, this reduction in lighting rates should have a tendency to stimulate the sale of electric energy and bring about a consequent reduction in service costs. It was also the belief of the commission, expressed during the conference, that the present level of oil prices would probably not advance for some time to come. All electricity generated by the company is produced from steam with oil used as fuel.

According to Mr. Raber, any move in the direction of rate reduction is in line with the company's policy to give the best possible service at the least possible cost. He added that the reduction would prove equally beneficial to the user of electricity both in outlying communities and rural districts.

Effective as of April 1, all municipalities served by the San Diego Consolidated Gas and Electric company benefited from a substantial decrease in rates for the lighting and maintenance of ornamental light standards.

In addition to the reduction in the general lighting schedule, the San Diego Consolidated Gas and Electric company also filed an optional lighting schedule with the commission which will benefit large users of electricity and a revision of the commercial and industrial heating schedules substantially reducing the cost of both kinds of service.

'Twas Ever Thus

Mr. Kirk Smith,
Editor "The Beach News."

Dear Sir: I notice the annual spam is on regarding the cleaning of vacant lots of weeds, etc., that constitute a menace to the town. The unusual amount of rain last winter resulted in an extra heavy crop of weeds and wild oats, which are now pretty dry, and only waiting for a high wind and a cigaret to cause havoc at Ocean Beach.

Every year we have notice from "the powers that be" that they will clean the lots and charge the cost to the lots, but was it ever done? ZENAS.

Mayor Walker and a Bunch of Admirals

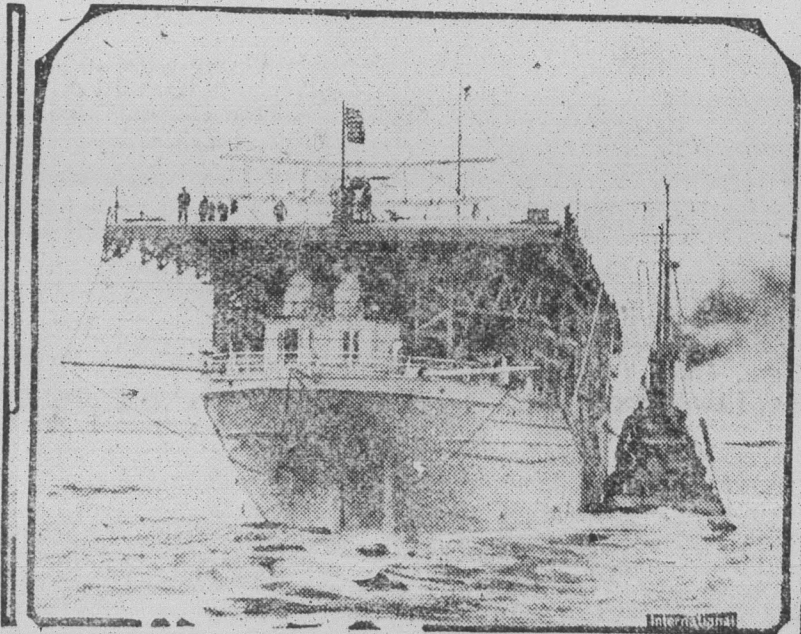

Mayor James J. Walker of New York surrounded on the steps of the city hall by the admirals and aides who arrived there with the fleet. The largest array of battle cruisers in history entered the Hudson river. The warships in the fleet numbered 116, and they carried more than 30,000 sailors and 2,227 officers. The men had a fine time ashore for some days. They and their vessels were fresh from the war maneuvers in the Caribbean sea.

Dynamiting the Levee Below New Orleans

This photograph, made at the instant of the explosion, shows the actual dynamiting of the Mississippi levee in St. Bernard parish when that and adjoining parishes were sacrificed to the flood waters of the Mississippi river to save the city of New Orleans. Afterward it was necessary to blast other openings in the dike and the operation was successful so far as New Orleans was concerned, but, of course, the farm and trapping lands between there and Lake Borgne were inundated and the loss there was considerable. All the inhabitants had been evacuated.

A huge cross, reputed to have been erected by the Ku Klux Klan, was set afire in the hills west of Martinez one night last week and attracted wide attention. California is still having a harder job choosing a suitable figure to represent the State in Statuary Hall in Washington, D. C., than it usually has choosing a national committee-man. The two candidates for the Hall of Fame proposed by the Legislature are Fra Junipero Serra, representing the Spanish civilization of the State, and Thomas Starr King, representing the American era. No opposition has developed to the first named, but the selection of King is less fortunate. Former Senator Phelan is one of the leaders in the opposition to King.

The official recapitulation of the legislative measures sent to Governor Young shows a total of 1085 propositions concurred in by both houses during the forty-seventh session. This compares with 1076 two years ago. The number of measures introduced was 2355, against 2233 in 1925. In the Senate there were 897 bills introduced, of which only 453 reached the Governor. The thirty-three constitutional amendments were reduced to six by the close of the session, while the twenty-nine concurrent and twelve joint resolutions were cut to twenty and nine, respectively, during the session. The Assemblymen introduced 1294 bills, but only 569 were given final passage. They also framed thirty-five constitutional amendments and of these all but two were defeated. Twenty of the thirty-seven concurrent resolutions and half the eighteen joint resolutions also were beaten either on the floor or by the committees of the two houses.

The job of painting the world's largest highway bridge is nearing completion. Carquinez bridge—mighty span of steel and concrete flung across the turbulent neck of San Francisco Bay at its northern extremity—is undergoing its bath of battle-gray paint. Perched on scaffolding and clinging to guide ropes, 350 feet above the water, the brush wielders are "doing their stuff." It will require 90 tons of paint to cover the entire structure. This is the largest bridge painting job in the history of the West and is the largest single painting job on record in California. Every inch of the giant structure is being covered with three coats of weather-proof, specially prepared paint. One gallon of paint covers four tons of steel and this means that 90 tons of paint are required for the entire job.

How he battled his way to within 501 feet of the ice-clad summit of Mount Whitney without spikes and on short provisions was related by Hank Weber, San Rafael musher, who now is recovering from physical hardships suffered in his dash up the peak. After five unsuccessful attempts to be the first man to climb the highest mountain in the United States, Weber was ready to depart from Lone Pine with his team of airdale dogs for return to his home in Marin county. Weber is said to have gained a greater altitude on the mountain in its winter garb than perhaps any other man.

Miss Alice M. Reading of Anderson, daughter of Major P. B. Reading, recently discovered among the papers left by her father the original treaty of peace made at Reading's ranch, or Fort Reading, on August 16, 1851, and entered into by the chiefs of all the tribes in this part of the state. This treaty assigned to the Indians all the land on the east side of the Sacramento River from the mouth of Ash Creek, at Balls Ferry, up that stream twenty-five miles and thence north to Pitt River.

The Federal Land Bank of Berkeley reports that during the month of April, 1927, it paid the total of $758,300 to farm loan applicants in the district covering California, Utah, Nevada, and Arizona. This made the gross number of loans allowed since organization of the bank in 1917 total 16,386, representing in cash $61,634,900.

California, long known as the world's fruit and vegetable basket, apparently has fame as the home of another product—pedigreed pigeons. Practically all varieties of pigeons are desired by the importer. The department will furnish information to pigeon breeders who request it.

The largest precast sewer pipe on the Pacific Coast is being laid in Sacramento as the first unit in the "million-dollar" sewer line authorized at the bond election last Summer. The line is being constructed on the ground, in sections weighing twelve tons each. The sections are nine feet in diameter and will be lowered in place with a crane. The sections are constructed with "slip joints" so that they may be joined and sealed with cement.

WOMEN CAN NOW DO MORE

Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Keeps Them Well

Fifty years ago there were few occupations for women. Some taught school, some did housework, some found work to do at home and a few took up nursing.

Today there are very few occupations not open to women. Today they work in factories with hundreds of other women and girls. There are also women architects, lawyers, dentists, executives, and legislators. But all too often a woman wins her economic independence at the cost of her health.

Mrs. Elizabeth Chamberlain who works in the Unionall factory making overalls writes that she got "wonderful results" from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Chamberlain lives at 500 Monmouth St., Trenton, N. J. She recommends the Vegetable Compound to her friends in the factory and will gladly answer any letters she gets from women asking about it.

If Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you?

BLOUSE AND SKIRT IN CONTRAST; MATCHED ACCESSORIES IN VOGUE

THE two-piece frock which contrasts fancy patterned fabric for the blouse with solid color for the skirt or vice versa is a popular theme of the mode. The combination does not necessarily involve two kinds of material, for one of the outstanding successes of this season is the dress of either silk or wool crepe, the blouse of which is all-over metal embroidered in tiny design. The frock in the picture is typical of this mode. It is styled of hunter's green wool crepe with tiny silver flowerets embroidered on the blouse. Dresses on this order are developed in every fashionable shade. Those in black with gold or silver are exceedingly dressy, while white with touches of metal on the waist is very winsome.

Not only diminutive embroidery effects, but the little silk prints are distinctively a product of this season. Especially does the costume of tiny-flowers, which do not trellis the background but rather accent each flower separately or in little individual bouquets, will be a popular theme.

Now is the season of day-dreams, when one visions a program of pretty clothes, the possession of which means so much of pleasure and satisfaction for the not-far-distant summer vacation time. Apropos of charming accessories here is a bit of news to bring a flutter of joy to the feminine heart—gay parasols will contribute their picturesque charm to the summer picture.

This revived interest in sunshades is proving an incentive to the stylist to include matching parasols in the fancy scarf, hat and bag sets, which bespeak for themselves such a widespread vogue.

Striped taffeta brings a modish aspect to the trio of hat, bag and parasol to the right in the picture, for both ured silk carry with it the conviction of being the latest. Quite a pretty fashion is just in at its beginning—that of the skirt of tiny silk print, worn with a knit jumper or sweater. Sometimes the skirt is very finely printed.

Speaking of this finely printed and plaited silk, a new vogue is to use the smooth silk for the top part of the dress, with the accordion or knife-plaited silk for the skirt portion.

In fact unique treatment is an added note of interest to these charming miniature prints. Very cunning ensembles are made entirely of these silks. Sometimes they are in three-piece, a blouse, a skirt and a long loose coat or a below-the-waist cape.

In nearly every instance the print is bordered with a solid color. There stripes and taffeta are important items in the season's styling.

Scene silk, that novelty which has so captured the fancy of women of fashion for frock, for blouse, for beach coat, negligee and what not, is the medium selected for the other hat and parasol in this illustration. Hand-some floral motifs are embroidered with colorful raffia straw, one on the hat and one on the parasol.

Novelty is outstanding in the new parasol sets. In addition to luminous silk prints, taffeta and georgette, cretonnes, ginghams and other cotton weaves are employed most intriguingly in the creating of these accessory sets.

Nothing is smarter, according to latest advices from Paris, than polka-dots—these are especially contributing is a disposition to accent the combination of red and navy in the plain-trimmed printed frock.

Not only is the small silk print used for the fashioning of the one, two or three-piece costume, but it appears in parasol, scarf and hat sets time and time again. There is this to be said for these little prints, their charm grows upon one. They were not at first accepted with any unusual degree of enthusiasm, but their favor has increased right along until at this moment they are one of the big style items.

Speaking of prints, the mode has shown a sudden favor for those of vivid color on black backgrounds. These are especially attractive in floral patternings, each separate flower standing out in startling relief against its jet blackness. Also for midsummer, white grounds with gay to the interest of parasols, bags, hats and scarves made to match.

Gorgeous Japanese paper sunshades have also entered the vogue. Perhaps it is more accurate to say that they initiated the parasol fashion, for their popularity was notable during the last month at midwinter resorts in the Sunny South. Some of these paper parasols have amusing short handles, which disappear from view when the shade is closed, only the loop cord which goes through the top showing.

Now that novel figures and scenes are set forth on parasol tops, there is much opportunity for the amateur artist to decorate her own parasol with cunning hand-painting.

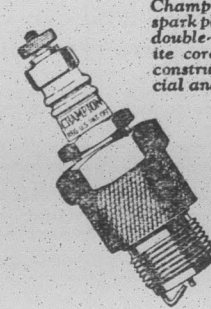

Yachting, golf and tennis scenes, dancing figures and flowers, in fact, any interesting idea may be painted on one's sunshade.

Puts An End to Bunion Pains

No Need to Suffer Another Day
Those Agonizing Torturing Pains.

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflamed, swollen toe joints and get them down to normal and that is to apply Moore's Emerald Oil night and morning.

Ask your druggist or any first class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces lasts a long time and furthermore if this wonderful discovery does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Emerald Oil at once. Applied night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Causes and Cures

of Children's Colds

A child too heavily clothed is as much exposed to cold as one under-dressed, warns Dr. Russell L. Cecil of Cornell university medical school. That's because too many clothes bring excessive perspiration once the child is indoors, followed by a rapid cooling equivalent to exposure in chilled air.

Other causes of colds often overlooked by parents, he writes in "Children, the Magazine for Parents," are indigestion and constipation, caused by poor diet and lack of exercise; overheated rooms where dry air lays bare the mucous membrane; diseased tonsils and adenoids, and infected sinuses which carry the cold bacteria dormant until the next opportunity for infection arrives.

Hot baths, hot drinks, simple diet and mild laxatives all are effective in treatment, he says, but the essential point, often ignored, is complete rest, allowing the body to use its whole strength in throwing off the infection.

IN OCEAN BEACH
Business Directory—Alphabetically Arranged
Service for "Strangers Within Our Gates"

OCEAN BEACH is famous as San Diego's greatest residential seaside community and is situated only six miles from the metropolitan district, with which it is connected by fast electric railway service and the paved coast highway. It is the most thriving and populous section of the peerless Point Loma peninsula, with ideal climate, wonderful productive soil and scenery unsurpassed. Wide avenues lead from the heights to the seashore and nearly all streets are paved and sidewalked, with a complete paving program in progress from the bay frontage to beautiful Sunset Cliffs. Ornamental lights adorn the main business section, while modern commercial structures and fine new homes, cottages and bungalow courts are constantly in course of construction. This delightful suburb has exceptionally good schools, churches, civic clubs, mail carrier service and all that makes life really worthwhile as is well attested by the appended list of prominent and progressive business interests:

New CALIFORNIA THEATRE

A motion picture with joy radiating from every one of its thousands of entertaining feet is now playing at the New California Theatre,—Clara Bow's new Paramount starring production "Rough House Rosie."

In the role of Rosie O'Reilly, the bewitching belle of Tenth Avenue, the diminutive dynamic Clara unfurls some new folds in the banner of fame that spreads for her when "IT" was flashed on the screens of the world.

"Rough House Rosie" has more action, tense drama and clever comedy crowded into it than five average motion pictures. No word that can be said would speak to highly of it.

Reed Howes gives a fine performance as Joe Hennessey while Doris Hill shows visual evidence of why she is a Paramount contract actress.
Others in the supporting cast are Arthur Housman, Douglas Gilmore, Henry Kolker, the Leon Lambert of Bebe Daniel's "A Kiss in a Taxi" and John Miljan.

On the stage, Fanchon and Marco have arranged another presentation, "Idea Screen," which lends itself to many delightful entertainment qualities. Screens of living players by the Sunkist Beauties, gives latitude for beautiful costuming, lavish settings and delightful specialties.

Al Lyons and his Band will offer a brand of melodies to music lovers which is bound to be satisfying.

Our Gang comedy, "Love My Dog", a novelty film, "In Paris", and the International newsreel with special reel of the hop-off of the Bellanca plane for Berlin with Chamberlain and Levine, gives praise for an exceedingly fine program for the week.

BALBOA THEATRE

Place the world's most beautiful woman, an audacious press agent, a handsome French ace, an attractive cigarette girl and an old roue in the same circle, crack a whip over their heads, and you have the substance for Esther Ralston's latest picture, "Fashions for Women," which comes to the Balboa theatre for three days, starting Sunday.

An array of gowns and styles of surpassing beauty play an important part in the picture. There are breakfast, luncheon, afternoon, tea and evening gowns, street and house dresses, sports outfits, negligees—in fact, every type and style of woman's wearing apparel ever created.

star. Whoever conceived the idea of having a member of the feminine sex handle the megaphone during the filming of the picture deserves tre-any man could have filmed the pic-

The locale of "Fashions for Wo-up its romance and thrills. Outstand-fashion show during which Miss Ral-

O. B. Woman's Club

The Ocean Beach Woman's club held its June meeting, the last of the club year, in the new headquarters, the old Flatiron building, Thursday afternoon. The occasion was purely social, and a delightful afternoon was spent. A club postoffice with parcel post packages, tightly sealed and properly stamped, contents a deep mystery, added much to the fun of the occasion.

Mrs. Maude Stuart was chairman of the program committee.
The social committee consisted of Miss Alice Jaeger, Mrs. J. R. Harrington and Mrs. W. W. Deuel.

One of the features of the afternoon was a beautiful exhibit of flowers from Ocean Beach gardens arranged by the garden department of the club.

WEDDING BELLS
AT OCEAN BEACH

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Thursday evening, June 2, in the parlor of the Ocean Beach
Baptist church, when Miss Eloise
E. Eddy, daughter of Mrs. Cora Eddy of Escondido, became the bride of Gordon S. Vaughan, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Vaughan of 1420 Ebers street. Rev. W. S.
Dunn officiated, the double ring service being used.

The church parlor was beautifully decorated with lilies and pink roses. Mrs. Feigley played Mendelssohn's wedding march.
Miss Dorothy Vaughan, sister of the groom, sang "Because," and was prettily attired in pink Georgette. The bride was charming in white crepe de chine and lace and wore a pearl ornament. Her bou-quet was of bride's roses and lilies

A lake is the landscape's most beautiful and expressive feature. It is earth's eye, looking into which the beholder measures the depth of his own nature. The fluidity of the water, the shore, the slender, everlastings which fringe it, and the wooded hills and cliffs around are its overhanging brows.—David Thoreau

FOOD SUGGESTIONS

THE family like all kinds of foods and are all well, the planning of a meal is not such a problem. With fussy, finicky people who are neither ill nor normal, it is a trying problem to prepare a meal to suit everybody.

If there are those in your family who enjoy kidneys the following dish will be enjoyed:

Beefsteak and Kidney Pie.

For an ordinary pie use one pound of round steak and four or five lamb's kidneys. Cut the kidneys through the center, drip into cold water, salt slightly and bring slowly to the boiling point. As soon as the boiling point is reached drain and add cold water with salt and boil again. Then drain and add to the steak. Roll the steak in seasoned flour and brown in a frying-pan. Cover with water, add a pinch of marjoram, summer savory and a few grains of nutmeg. Simmer until the meat is tender. Add any further seasoning needed. Thicken the gravy with flour and add butter. Pour the meat and kidney into a deep dish, cover with a pastry top and bake. Serve either hot or cold.

Chicken à la King

Melt two tablespoons of butter. In it cook one-fourth of a pound of fresh mushrooms, caps peeled and broken in pieces, one-half of a green pepper cut into shreds; stir until some of the moisture is evaporated. In another saucepan melt two tablespoons of butter; in it cook three tablespoons of flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt and one-fourth teaspoonful of paprika; add one cupful of thin cream and one cupful of chicken broth, stir until boiling; heat in one egg yolk, mixed with a teaspoonful of lemon juice and continue heating until the egg is cooked. Do not boil; add the mushrooms and pepper and three cupfuls of thick-squeezed pieces of cooked chicken breast. Serve hot.

Raisin Pie.

Mix two cupfuls of stemmed seeded raisins, slightly cut or chopped with one lemon (crated rind and juice), one cupful of cold water, one-third of a cupful of sugar and one well-beaten egg. A tablespoonful of flour mixed with a little water may be added, or another egg. Fill the crust and cover with dots of butter, then with latticed crust and bake.

BE A FRIENDLY FELLOW

By SYDNEY J. BURGOYNE

WHEN you wake up in the morning And things look sort of blue, There's a happy little something. That you can always do.

Just pull yourself together And resolve that all the day, You'll be a FRIENDLY FELLOW In all you do and say.

Put on a happy feeling As you put on your clothes, A FRIENDLY FELLOW feeling That turns the blue to rose.

So with a smile-a-minute And a cheery word or two, Just be a FRIENDLY FELLOW— That's all you have to do.

And you'll be spreading sunshine About you all the day— By making others happy In that FRIENDLY FELLOW way.

While a mighty lot of gladness Will be coming back to you— For if you're a FRIENDLY FELLOW You'll find FRIENDLY FELLOWS, too.

Then start the day a-smiling, And keep it up right through— For a truly FRIENDLY FELLOW Ends it that way, too.

So be a FRIENDLY FELLOW, For when life's tale is told: "HE WAS A FRIENDLY FELLOW" Is worth far more than gold.

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

By JOSEPH KAYE

At Twenty-one Edwin Franks Goldman Was a Cornetist at the Metropolitan Opera.

"AT THE age of twenty-one I played the cornet in the orchestra of the Metropolitan Opera House, in New York. I started there when I was seventeen and did not leave until I was thirty-two, fifteen years in the pit, from where I heard wonderful singing, but rarely saw the singers—Edwin Franks Goldman."

TODAY—Edwin Franks Goldman, next to Sousa, is the greatest bandmaster in America. His symphonic band plays every summer a season of three months in New York, concerts which are subsidized by wealthy people to the extent of over a hundred thousand dollars a season. The concerts are attended by as many as twenty thousand people in an evening and have achieved nation-wide fame. Mr. Goldman also is a celebrated record artist.

The steps by which Mr. Goldman worked his way to present standing have been steep and arduous. His career as a bandmaster began when he led the police band of New York, a small local organization. And that was only a few years ago.

The Siege of Paris

"THE price of a rat caught in the sewers and half cooked (for fuel, too, is short) is far higher than we formerly used to pay for spring chicken."

This entry in the diary of one of the survivors of the siege of Paris shows the straits to which the gallant defenders of the beleaguered city were reduced for the bare necessities of life. Rats, cat horses, the wild animals in the zoo, plant roots, and even garbage, were utilized as food. Furniture, wainscoting and other woodwork went for fuel in that bitter winter of 1870-71, while the conquering Prussians thundered at Paris' gates, and while the fated city's defenders fought among themselves, starved and attempted futile sallies against the besieging foe.

When Napoleon III was captured with MacMahon's army France had cast off the imperial yoke, abolished the assembly and for the third time in eighty years had declared a republic. General Trochu, a brave man and wise soldier, was appointed military head of a hastily selected provisional government, his colleagues being Gambetta, Favre, Thiers and Simon. The city was at once set in order to resist the advancing Prussians.

But here a new difficulty arose. Paris was full of sects and factions, each at swords' point with the others. In the first French revolution the warring factions had combined as one against the advancing foreign invasion and had repelled it. But now, in 1870, with the German army already within a few days' march of the capital, the political parties wrangled, disputed and accomplished nothing. The only point on which they united was their disgust for Napoleonism. Instead of preparing organized resistance, the chiefs of these factions—"Social Democrats," as they were called—spent their energies in hampering and trying to overthrow the provisional government.

Even when, on September 19, the German armies reached Paris and laid siege to the city these malcontents did not cease from their efforts to overthrow Trochu and his colleagues.

The German armies bombarding the city, starvation stalking abroad and internal riots and intrigues—this was the triple state of affairs confronting Paris' defenders. And, over and above all, hung the amazement and black shame of martial France's utter defeat at the hands of her heretofore despised Prussian rival. All this was, apparently, sufficient to break the stoutest spirit. Yet, in spite of it the Parisians fought and suffered like heroes. They endured hunger, cold and other privations with a gay courage that was the admiration of Europe. They joked about the murderous hail of Prussian shells that scourged them daily and nightly with fire and death. They volunteered eagerly for military service. Sortie after sortie was made against the stronger Prussians outside the city, and each crushing defeat served only to increase the warlike zeal of the brave defenders.

Armies were raised in other parts of France to relieve the siege. Garibaldi himself took the field in behalf of the stricken land. But, one after another, each of these relief armies was beaten back by the invading German hosts. At last, on January 19, 1871, a final sally against the enemy failed. Paris could hold out no longer.

Nothing was left to eat. For three weeks a bombardment of shells from every quarter had devastated whole sections. Trochu resigned and the French capital surrendered. A truce (January 28) was agreed upon with the Germans and elections were held. In this way a new national assembly was chosen. Thiers was elected executive head of the nation, a temporary seat of government was established at Versailles, near Paris, and peace terms were discussed.

But the Social Democrats and other factions in Paris saw in this excellent occasion to break into active insurrection. They demanded that Paris be an autonomous (home-rule) city, disclaimed the acts of the government at Versailles and opened an era known as the Commune. Communists were by no means new in France, nor was this their first active outbreak. They had been opposed to the empire, and now they had an equal dislike to the Thiers government. So, March 18, 1871, the horrors of a revolution again convulsed unhappy Paris. Home rule was declared and the Communists prepared to hold the city against all comers. The government tried to compromise, but failed. Then civil war broke out, the government attacking the city, the Communists defending it. A second siege of Paris began, lasting from April 2 to May 21. The Communists quarreled among themselves, indulged in the wildest excesses of mob rule, burned public buildings, ordered wholesale executions, scoffed at religion, murdered the archbishop, threatened in an excess of blasphemy to swear out a warrant for the arrest of God, and in similar ways demonstrated their unfitness to exist. The government troops at last forced their way into Paris. After eight days of street fighting the Commune was stamped out, 6,500 of its members being killed and many thousands more imprisoned.

So ended the war, the siege and the Commune. The battered, humiliated French nation slowly began to rebuild its wrecked prosperity. The price of Napoleonism was paid.

New Jewel Fad

Paris has what is considered the most expensive fad of all. It is that each month of the year the chic woman must wear the month's "birthstone"—the ruby during July, the opal during October and the other stones according to their month. Many rich women have taken up the idea with real jewelry, but this vogue probably will be followed by others who can sport only synthetic gems.

Horse Soldier Is Passing Away

Modern Conditions of Warfare Make Cavalry Obsolete as Fighting Arm.

London.—The cavalry as an arm of the British fighting forces is to be reduced in number and eventually may be abolished. The tank, armored car, airplane, machine gun and increased power and range of artillery have combined to make the horse soldier obsolete under modern conditions of warfare, and many military experts in this country have condemned him. In a recent statement before parliament Sir L. Worthington-Evans, secretary of state for war, foreshadowed the decline and fall of the cavalry in these words:

"There is a responsible body of opinion holding that, in principle, the day of the horse is over, and that the duties of the cavalry should be performed, and would be better performed, by airplanes and by troops mounted in rapidly moving cross-country vehicles, such as light fast tanks and armored cars. On the other hand, it is urged that there are many military situations possible in various parts of the world in which, compared with the adaptability of the horse unit, a mechanically transported unit would be at a great disadvantage."

The Best Solution.
"At present an unbridled river presents an impassable object to tanks and offers but few difficulties to cavalry, and there are many rivers in countries in which our army must be prepared to operate. I believe the truth is that we have not yet got the data upon which to make an irrevocable decision as to the kind of military force which is to do the work hitherto done by the cavalry. For the present the best solution seems to be a combination of the two."

"Last year I asked a committee of military experts to give me some advice as to the cavalry requirements of the army. They directed my attention. In the first place, to two grave defects in the cavalry as it is organized and equipped today. To take its place effectively in a modern army, the cavalry regiment has neither sufficient mobility nor adequate fire power. The lack of mobility is due partly to the excessive weight that the troop force has now to carry. This seriously reduces a regiment's speed and range of action, and the already narrow radius of action is still further limited by its dependence on its ponderous and slow-moving transport."

"The lack of fire power is partly due to an insufficiency of machine guns and partly to the unsuitability of the Hotchkiss gun. The army council has decided to take steps immediately to remedy the defects, so far as possible, by providing mechanical vehicles for the first-line transport and eight machine guns instead of four as at present, to be carried in mechanical vehicles, instead of on pack horses."

"At present this reorganization will be confined to the six-line regiments only, but the intention is to extend the new organization to all the cavalry as funds become available, subject to such modifications as experience may suggest. More research and experiments are necessary before we come to a final decision."

Seek Suitable Vehicle.

"To mechanize the cavalry completely with an unsuitable vehicle—and there is no suitable vehicle at present—would be a most expensive mistake. The horse may not be all that it should be, but, in the meantime, it is better than a vehicle that is all that it should not be. But I can assure the house that the provision of a suitable cross-country vehicle is the subject of continuous research and experiment."

"Meanwhile, the reorganization which provides for the mechanization of the first-line transport and the carriage of the machine guns enables us to increase cavalry mobility and fire power, and at the same time to reduce the number of men and horses."

The last sentence tells the story.

Germany Bars Long Visits of Jazz Bands

Berlin.—Germany, like many other European countries, has put up the bars against the herds of foreign jazz band artists who come here to play in movie theaters, restaurants and coffee house orchestras and rob thousands of unemployed German musicians of a chance to earn a living.

The foreign office has instructed its consulates abroad that no visas are to be given to musicians for a stay of more than six months in Germany, unless municipal authorities issue an employment permit. The order does not apply to conductors or orchestras desiring to tour the country.

DIG UP GUNS HIDDEN FROM "DAMN YANKS" BACK IN '60S

Cache of Confederate Muskets and Ammunition Found While Excavating Bridge in North Carolina.

Raleigh, N. C.—Seven feet below the bottom of Deep river a cache of Confederate muskets and ammunition was brought to light by a force of the highway commission when excavating for a bridge between High Point and Greensboro. The woodwork on the muskets was excellently preserved after lying in the mud and water for half a century, according to Charles Ross, assistant attorney general assigned to the highway commission.

Five and ten-inch shells as well as cannon balls, still packed in the boxes in which they were shipped, were included in the ammunition found. The five-inch shells had wooden plugs which had allowed the water to seep through and wet the powder inside. Some of these were emptied, but the big shells presented another problem. These were plugged with powder or lead, and the workmen were not at all sure that the moisture had penetrated them, hence the fear of striking a percussion cap had prevented any of the big shells being opened when Mr. Ross left the scene.

"They put some of the shells and cannon balls in my car to haul them up to the top of the hill, and I was right relieved when they took them out," Mr. Ross stated.

Local tradition has it that two carloads of ammunition was shipped from Richmond during the Civil war, but the "damn Yankees" succeeded in burning the railroad bridge at this point before the train hauling the supplies could cross it. The Confederate soldiers loaded all the ammunition possible on wagons, and then threw the remainder in the river to keep the Yankees from using it.

BEST DRESSER

Gloria Holden of Long Island City, awarded the title of "most tastefully dressed American woman" in a national contest in promoting of American-designed clothes for American women.

By utilizing a little machinery, the number of men and horses is reduced by hundreds, and the reduction is accompanied by a decided increase in both fire power and mobility.

It is strange that England should be the first great power to come out unequivocally in its condemnation of cavalry as a suitable arm for modern warfare. No one can doubt that the statement of the secretary of war is a trifle veiled, that is a concession to the British army's lingering devotion to the cavalry. Cavalry ruled the British army and ruled it poorly, according to many critics and observers being responsible for many blunders. Today the war office seems convinced that the horse soldier belongs only to the past and, being convinced, is—in the words of one military writer—"gratifyingly enthusiastic in its championship of the new methods of mechanization."

Horse Outdistanced.

Continuing, this critic observes: "The change is, of course, inevitable. It is only one item in a process which has been altering the outward life of the civilized world since the age of mechanical invention began. In the speeding up of modern warfare—a speeding up which entails the mechanical transportation of infantry—the horse has been hopelessly outdistanced. He has been beaten on his own ground; he has become an 'also ran.'"

"Cavalry is, in fact, superseded, not only by the greater stability which certain aspects of modern war take on, but also by its greater mobility when trench warfare is abandoned. Reconnoitering is now done by the airplane, the charge by tanks, the transport of men and material by lorry; even the guns are brought up by tractor. The horse has bidden farewell to the battlefield and on all but picturesque grounds we may be thankful."

Soldiers will regret the passing of the cavalry. To them it is a beautiful arm of the service, colorful and dauntless. Its morale is always high, for it is very proud, and it is steeped in traditions of valor. There is no military spectacle comparable to a cavalry charge. There is no military ceremony comparable to a cavalry review. Who, having been a cavalryman, would not again thrill at the command: "Pass in review. Column of platoons on first troop, first squad, on, forward, guide right, column right! How-w-w-w!"

Four Presidents Held Unwelcome as Students

Princeton, N. J.—Abraham Lincoln, Thomas Jefferson, Benjamin Franklin and Grover Cleveland would never have received degrees from modern American universities, in the opinion of Prof. Walter L. Whittlesley of the politics faculty of Princeton university.

"It is not very likely that Lincoln would have come to college today," Professor Whittlesley said, "for the cost would have been prohibitive. Moreover, a mind like his would have outrun all bounds and been unwelcome in the average university."

The mind of Cleveland, who arrived at conclusions deliberately and well, was too slow to answer the gibes demanded by educators today, according to Professor Whittlesley.

Jefferson and Franklin would have been "fired" early in their college careers, Professor Whittlesley believes, because they probably would not have submitted to the restraint placed upon present-day students.

6 things to understand about used car allowances

- 1 When you trade-in your used car for a new car, you are after all making a purchase, not a sale. You are simply applying your present car as a credit toward the purchase price of the new car.
- 2 Your used car has only one fundamental basis of value; i. e., what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.
- 3 Your used car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.
- 4 The largest allowance is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not.
- 5 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.
- 6 First judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your used car.

Bathers "Conservative"

You can introduce a bath into a village, but you cannot make the villagers bathe in it, is about the conclusion drawn by Rev. Gordon Smythe, rector in the village of Stow St. Mary, England. The community of four farmers and their hundred workers raised $1,000 for a new schoolhouse, and the enterprising rector collected a sufficient amount in addition to install two modern baths. Tubs have been the only bathing places of the villagers, and they were "conservative," as the rector explained, about using the new tubs. He, however, has hopes of inducing some of the leaders to encourage their children to take a bath at the schoolhouse and thus start the fashion.
